

Stimulus Watch

Weber Johnson Public Affairs is uniquely suited to assist companies that are capable of performing within the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, otherwise known as the Obama Stimulus Plan. Significant federal funds are currently flowing to states for shovel-ready projects in the areas of energy, education, health care and transportation, among others. To take full advantage of this opportunity, clients need to:

- Identify federal programs where you might perform (high school renovation, for example);
- Identify state agencies and key decision makers charged with dispersing federal funds locally;
- Be aware that most money available to states will be obligated quickly or states run the risk of losing the money altogether.

For help navigating these waters, give us a call or respond to email for more information.